

THE BUCKEYE STATE

A. O. Taylor

Cleveland, O., April 29.—Dr. Joseph H. Carroll, Columbus, O., was the guest of his father, G. W. Carroll of East 7th street, last week. He was a delegate to the Lexington M. E. conference in session at Cory M. E. Church. Rev. J. B. Redmond has been reappointed pastor of Cory M. E. Church, to the delight of his many admirers. Rev. Redmond is progressive, energetic, and has been very successful as pastor of Cory the past year. His return to that congregation meets its hearty approval, as well as that of the community. Dr. Butler of Philadelphia delivered the memorial address Sunday afternoon before a large and appreciative audience, and Dr. King, editor of the Southwestern Christian Advocate, preached an eloquent sermon at the evening service. The appointments were read by Bishop Leete at the afternoon service, which permitted the ministers to return to their homes Sunday night. Other outstanding features will be given in next issue. The work of the choir, with Charles Boyd as director, was indeed a most commendable feature of the conference. G. W. Carroll, 2215 East 74th street, celebrated his 74th birthday April 12 with a stag. Those present were Louis Jones, Walter B. Wright, Horace Roller, E. M. Shook, Gus Clark, William McIntire and Clarence Hunnicutt. Several nice presents were received. Mrs. Edith Woods, formerly of Cleveland, writes friends that she is building another hotel for the accommodation of visitors to Idlewild, Mich., the coming season. She is expecting a larger crowd than last year. The Odd Fellows will hold their annual thanksgiving services the second Sunday in May. Particulars in next issue. The parents' meeting to be held at the Central Avenue Public Bath House Friday evening, April 29, promises to be unique as well as beneficial to all who attend. All mothers and fathers are requested to attend. Among the speakers will be Miss Hazel Mountain, the well known club worker; Mrs. Lethia Fleming, wife of Counsellman F. L. Connors, social worker; William R. Connors, secretary of the Cleveland Community Center, a representative of the Cleveland Welfare Federation and others. Among those who contribute to the musical program will be Miss Clara Dougherty and Miss Dessa Clements, soprano; A. Z. Ferguson, baritone; J. Walter Willis, well known for his beautiful whistling solos; James Settles and Arthur J. Smith, photographers at 413 Central avenue; well known baritone and violinist, respectively. Admission free. Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel H. Williams motored Sunday to Akron and Barberton. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Barberton. Mrs. Cora West Robinson of East 76th street, spent the week in Youngstown, O., as guest of Mrs. Lulu Dockett, who will return with her to remain indefinitely. They attended the annual outing of Covenant Lodge, F. and A. M., in Youngstown Tuesday. Mrs. George L. Moss, wife of Potentate Moss of El Hasa Temple, also attended the Masonic outing. A. C. Phonix, William Floyd, Edward Brady and Prof. F. M. Hopson, bachelor of art, who compose the "American Woodmen Melody Four," gave an elaborate program for Argonne Company G. U. S. R. of P., Capt. William Walker commanding. Wednesday evening. Over $75 was realized. The general committee of the K. of P. has secured the Presbyterian Church (white), corner of 46th street and Woodland avenue, for the annual sermon May 15. Rev. Archie E. Allen, Akron, O., will deliver the special sermon. The public is welcome to this service. The recently organized Pythian Calanthe choir, J. W. Willis, director, will sing. The Dunbar Literary Society of Shiloh Church had an interesting program Tuesday evening. Among the participants were Mrs. Fannie Bradford, Prof. G. H. Ambrose, Mrs. Mary Craft and Luther Burks, vocalists; Geneva Jackson, Mary Lou Boswell and Mrs. Lovie Bowers, readings, and there were selections by Mrs. Catherine White and Prof. Albert Carter. Miss Bessie Simmons and Mrs. White were the committee on program. Good programs every Tuesday evening. The death of Harrison Smith, the 20-year-old son of Mr. and visitors will communicate with James A. Rogers, 3222 Central avenue. Charles E. Gordon, state deputy. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smart, 2228 East 35th street, were visited by the sick special April 15 and a fine 11-pound baby was left. Mother and baby doing fine. Mr. and Mrs. Smart were married February 19, 1920. Mr. Smart is the son of Rev. W. V. Smart, a wealthy plantation owner of Inverness, Ala., and came to Cleveland five years ago. He is the energetic superintendent of Revelation Baptist Sunday school, East 29th street and Woodland avenue. Mrs. Lila Holmes Pittsburg, is in the city as guest of Mrs. Victoria Taylor, 3018 East 45th street. Anderson, president; Mrs. Cornelia Nickens, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Berry, secretary; Mrs. P. W. Lemon, treasurer; Mrs. W. P. Blue, chairman of program committee. Mrs. Berry has the reputation of being a poetess and is composing the poem for the "Mothers' Day" program to be rendered at St. Marks Presbyterian Church, East 56th street and Thackeray avenue. Miss Allie Collins and Miss Gertrude Land of East 25th street were called to Waynesville, O., by the death of their aunt. Mrs. Ida Scott, matron, and Alexander O. Taylor, superintendent, were hosts and host at an enjoyable party given for the fifty little girls to the sewing school of the Central Avenue Bath House last Friday afternoon. After a varied program consisting of speeches, songs, recitation and games the children were treated to refreshments. Remnants of calico and other goods will be gladly received by the matron for the use of the school every Wednesday afternoon, as many of the children are unable to pay for material. All girls invited. The Lincoln Embroidery Club contributed several articles to be used for the coming W. A. A. bazar. Many other clubs can do likewise. The club met with Mrs. B. M. Shook of East 74th street Thursday. Next meeting with Mrs. J. Cyril Crawford of Knowlton avenue May 5. Word comes from Denver, Colo., that our friend Henry Haines, well known in Cleveland as a public stenographer, has organized a Denver Stenographers' Association similar to the one he organized in Cleveland one year ago. The object of these organizations is to promote greater efficiency in office work and to develop culture and wholesome enjoyment under proper auspices for betterment of the race. This is a laudable object, and the Cleveland stenographers were not slow in interpreting it to good advantage in this community. For the purpose of the day, the association will catch the inspiration and lead the social set of the younger element there as their sister organization is doing in Cleveland. The Cleveland correspondent is indebted to Mr. Haines for a great deal of his inspiration in his initial study of shorthand. Mrs. Ethelene Clark, 2164 East 74th street, was a delightful hostess to the Present Day Club at its last meeting. Mrs. Kate Lavender, East 95th street, will be the hostess to the club Tuesday night, May 2. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Tuck and daughter, Miss Dortha, motored from Oberlin Monday to attend the funeral of Harrison Smith and visit their newly born granddaughter and niece who arrived Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Tuck of East 40th street. Mrs. R. S. Sills, 2211 East 39th street, is grateful to the employees of the Central Avenue Bath House for the beautiful plant presented to her during her past illness. The Swastika Social Club enjoyed a pleasant meeting with Mr. and Mrs. Atkins, 2246 East 49th street. Next meeting with Mrs. Armstrong, 2293 East 35th street. A. C. Trimble, 2301 East 21st street, received the sad intelligence that his brother, Rev. William R. Jackson, had died in Painesville, O., Monday. The Royal House of Tabors held their annual installation of officers Friday evening at Spiro's Hall. Among the officers installed were E. W. Sellers, presiding prince; Mrs. Lou Todd, presiding princess; Charles Robinson, secretary; and Mrs. Bell, recorder. Mrs. T. W. Fleming of East 40th street and Mrs. Edwin H. Bell of New York avenue attended the bazar convention in Chicago the past week. Myron J. Dougherty, son of Mrs. Clara Dougherty, 2173 East 34th street, left for Rochester, N. Y., Sunday night to join his brother John and accept a lucrative position. Mr. Dougherty will be greatly missed in athletic circles by the Acme Association, whose basketball team recently won the community loving cup. Mrs. Sylvia Trigg, mother of Jason Trigg of East 103rd street, has been quite ill since her arrival from Cleveland last year. W. C. Kirkpatrick, 2188 East 73rd street, left the city Wednesday to accept a lucrative position with the United States Hotel Co., in Utica, N. Y.
