

Unique Assemblage Meets at Home of Misses Shaw

An assemblage of unique interest gathered at the home of Misses Blanche and Emelyne Shaw on Sunday. The meeting had been called ostensibly to hear Albert Vail lecture on the principles of the Bahai movement. Mr. Vail is a national figure, giving lectures all over the country. He was introduced by Mrs. James A. Parker, a very devout Bahaiist. The meeting took the form of an interracial get-together, in which many questions vital to both groups were discussed with an enthusiasm and earnestness which pledged promise of a better understanding and a more harmonious adjustment of all matters which affect both groups—materially and spiritually.

The personnel of the gathering was very interesting and included the following: Miss Martha Yeager, educationing secretary of the Central Y. W. C. A.; Emil Josi, teacher in Lane Tech.; S. Struwl, teacher in the Y. M. C. A. college; H. McCune, a magazine writer; Miss Marion Lychenheim of the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra. Miss Jeannie VanToch of the foreign department of the Chicago public library. Mr. and Mrs. Jean Friduss, both artists; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Petruhle, Mr. and Mrs. E. Franklin Frazier, Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Wheeler and others.

Mrs. E. Franklin Frazier read selections from her own poems. Russian tea was served from the samovar, the table being decorated with Russian candleabra, with Russian serving dishes. The future meetings give promise of inspirational and educational interest to both groups.
