

Leslie Hill Speaks At U. of C. Chapel

As the principal speaker Sunday, at the regular morning services in Rockefeller Memorial Chapel, University of Chicago, Dr. Leslie Pinckney Hill, president Cheyney (Pa.) State Teachers college, declared "it will take years to break down the walls of prejudice."

"The majority of the peoples of the world," he said, "are of the colored races and they are troubled to know if they will have the freedoms promised by the world's Bibles and humanities.

"They will refuse to accept the thesis that vast future development must be predicated solely on economic realism."
