Dear Harriet!

Four ^{more presentations} days more and the heavenly drama in the West will ^{be closed} come to an end, the curtain shall come down and the spiritual ^{Artist} Dramatist shall retire! The whole ^{Western} world has acclaimed him as the supreme and unique figure of this age and all other ages. He came to the West with the Sun of Reality ⁱⁿ on his ^{mind} side and the ^{guides} ~~Beasts~~ of the Holy Spirit in his heart.

These lights, he spread broadcast and these sweet fragrances he diffused all around. He blew in the trumpet and ~~the~~ resurrection was set up, the dead arose from their tombs, the ears were unstopped, the deaf ~~became~~ hearing, the dumb ~~ones~~ found eloquence, the halting and the lame ~~ones~~ walked like unto gazelles, the blind ~~ones~~ received sight, the ^{cold} winter of unbelief was changed into the balmy springtime of faith; the sea of divine generosity was set in motion; the depressed ones received a goodly portion; the poor became rich, the despondent ~~ones~~ ~~became~~ hopeful; the pearls of wisdom and knowledge were distributed the doors of the Kingdom of Allah were flung wide; the gates of the paradise of the Lord of Hosts were opened and mankind entered therein to listen to the heavenly Nightingale, singing the mystic anthems of brotherhood and universal Peace.

more than ever."

4 ⁸ About 11 o'clock he called again on Rouba Khanom. ⁸ On his return there were present our Jewish friends. He spoke with them about the coming of the Lord of Lords in this latter day. He also encouraged them to speak about the extreme hospitality of the Oriental Bahais to those Western Bahais who were present at this interview. Then he went out to call on our many Turkish Pashas who have gathered just at this time in Paris. This last month the Beloved met many of the most prominent life of future generations, I do not know whether I shall succeed in this service, because all my efforts ~~in these directions have failed so far,~~ but be confident that I will do my best. There, in the heart of the East, the life is much sweeter, the river of existence flows ^{with} gently ~~and~~ ^{with} a majestic calmness and limpid tranquility; here in the West, life is a turbulent, moving sea, always tumultuous. The mountain waves of intellectual activities and giant-like ^{industrial} undertakings dash furiously against the enchantments of human lives, washing away the destruction wrought. How many ~~ships~~ ^{ships} are wrecked on this active, surging sea and how many lives are totally lost! I shall try to depict to you, ~~in the future~~ the calm and contemplative East, if possible, the nobleness and gentleness of that tranquil river of life.

This morning after ~~my~~ ~~select~~ the Beloved sent me to call on three very important Persians to deliver his messages of love and to show them the translation of the Report of the Mashrekhal After Convention in Newyork as written by Mr Jos. H. Haunwen. They were all very interested and thought ^{the} your Feasts ^{must} have been very wonderful and the Bahai Cause taking greater hold of the people. On my return Mon. and Madame Dreyfus and a number of other friends were present. They handed me a letter which happened to be from your sister, Mrs Inglis. The Master asked me from whom have you received the letter? I said ^{from} Mrs Inglis. It was from Mrs Inglis.

Inglio, Mrs Magee's daughter. Then he said to all those who were present:-
"I love all the members of the family of Mrs Magee. It is a very blessed family. Whosoever enters in their apartment, returns very happy and rejoiced. Mrs Inglio is one of the Bahai women in America that I love and admire very much.
She is my real daughter. She is the embodiment of nobility and gentleness, very attracted and entitled. Her husband is an excellent man, with real determination and firm resolution.
I was very pleased to meet him.
He is a true man. Mrs Magee has another daughter. She writes to us often the news of the Cause.
She informs us of what is going on in America. ^{She also} ~~On the other~~ hand ^{our} she spreads the news amongst the different assemblies.

She is ^a very active, very pure girl. She loves the Cause very much. Once I was in a meeting; Mrs Inglis was asked to play ^{and sing}. She did so, but with the greatest dignity and refinement. Everybody applauded her. ^{Then he looked toward me laughing; but Ahmad applauded her the most. He laughed and everybody laughed.}

5 ^{Afterward} a Persian came with his wife and the Beloved talked with them a great deal, ^{relating} giving some of the stories which I had never heard before.

Then a cable was ^{dispatched} ~~forwarded~~ to America to forward all ~~the~~ letters direct to Port Said.

After the general meeting down stair, ~~the Beloved~~^{he} went out to call on Ahmad Ezzat Pasha. At four o'clock he took a carriage all by himself and went out to pay his last visit on Maner Pasha and his wife.

On his return he called on Miss Sanderson, met her mother, spoke to both of them very beautifully, giving them heavenly consolation.

Then ~~he~~^{for hours through} he walked ~~in~~ different avenues and with Merza Jalal ~~we~~ followed him.

It was about half past ~~eight~~^{nine} we reached the hotel and at ~~7~~^{10 o'clock} o'clock Mon and Madame Richard came ⁱⁿ and had another long ^{interview} conversation with the Beloved. Merza Mahomed Khan acted as ~~interpreter~~.

~~He~~ did nothing but talking ^{about} early departure from Paris. ~~I~~ want to fly away. ~~Don't~~ ~~worry~~
